Dear Ms. [REDACTED],

We will be looking forward to seeing [REDACTED] on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. He is welcome to come on both academic and shop weeks. However, our priority must be on the students who are in shop format during a given week so if he needs some one-on-one tutoring there is no guarantee that we would be able to provide that during his academic week. That being said, we would be available to answer quick questions that he might have as he completes the assignments. In the even that there are no sophomores or seniors here for extra help during that format then we would be able to provide one-on-one support.

As for suing the computer at home, I did explain to [REDACTED] that it would be possible to practice his HTML and Javascript programming at home. I will provide you with some things via email that he can work on over the weekend by the end of the school day tomorrow.

Best regards,

Larry Lambert

Hello again Mr. Lambert,

[REDACTED] has brought it to our attention that he does not understand java script etc. [REDACTED] did say that you said he could practice some at home. I need to know exactly what he can do at home to practice? He is on restriction from the computer for his grade in your class, but if it is to do homework or for his computer programming we will allow him to use the computer (but monitor him closely). I have also asked [REDACTED] to stay after in your class on tuesdays and thursdays for extra help. I would like him to do this every tuesday and thursday but need to know if this is ok with you as well.

Thank you for your time,

[REDACTED]
