

Let's Blog

Programming

You should create a blog entry that outlines the syntax and usage of the various looping constructs and decision making structures available to a software developer in Visual Basic. You should include specific code examples.

Web Development

You should create a blog entry that outlines the use of forms on websites. Your entry should include a list of the tags used to create forms as well as a description of the proper usage of the tags in creating an HTML page that includes a form.